As an Interior Designer I know how much our homes and surroundings effect us and I've found that being happy where you live can change so many aspects of our lives. This book is a must read for anyone who is struggling with their home or wishing they had something more. You'll come away feeling so grateful for the life your home has provided you even if it's not picture perfect.3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. I LOVE decorating booksBy Fiona SandersA delightful, refreshing book. I LOVE decorating books. They give me lots of ideas and inspiration. But THIS BOOK changed my perspective. The idea (behind the great ideas!) is that I'm not decorating my house, I am loving my house, and spreading joy. Taking simple pleasure in the beautiful, and savoring the moments. This book is a little like Alexandra Stoddard meets Lucille Ball. Melissa has a great and humorous way of writing, and pointing out the beautiful moments. It is refreshing, but a lot like she knocked on your door with lattes' in hand and said, Hey girl, what do you want to do with this room? Well written, inspiring, the perfect tonic for those feeling "stuck" and unsure of what to do next with their home.4 of 4 people found the following review helpful. A Must Read for Home LoversBy Quite Simply HomeThis is such a great book! We are all overwhelmed with the perfect picture of the perfect house, and ours always comes up short. Melissa does a great job of inspiring us to create the perfect home for our family and not feel pressured to have a Pinterest worthy house. There are practical tips on loving your own home and how to accomplish this in our lives. I have more underlined than not in many chapters and can't wait to start the 31 day challenge of Loving My Own Home! A must read for home lovers!
