Paul Wagland : Paths, Patios Decking before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Paths, Patios Decking:

Nothing showcases a garden's beauty and brings out its relaxing and reinvigorating qualities like Paths, Patios, and Decking. No matter the size of your garden, this detailed, generously illustrated guide has simple and effective advice on creating a vibrant entertainment space, setting up a tranquil secluded spot, providing ease of access, and improving property value. Plus, there's information on additional enhancements, including ponds and walls, and helpful hints on cleaning and maintenance.

About the Author Paul Wagland is an RHS-qualified gardener and an experienced writer and designer. He specialises in the practical side of horticulture, from landscaping and outdoor DIY to growing fruit and vegetables. With a firm belief that a well-maintained garden can add considerable value to a home, Paul has redesigned and renovated many neglected plots for both enjoyment and profit. He is the former editor of two popular gardening magazines (Pond Gardening and Grow Your Own) and divides most of his free time between his own garden and three allotments in suburban Essex, in the east of England.
