Live Off the Land and Reduce Your Carbon FootprintBy ZLPrepper is a great resource for preparing yourself for any future natural disasters that would shut down your utility or food supply. I enjoyed the topic of dehydrating and canning foods as a preservation method. Also it discusses what to do during a medical emergency and which supplies to keep on hand. Off Grid Living offers great alternatives to living off of the land and being independent from electrical and water sources. The chapter on Clothing was particularly insightful and offered advice about recycling and reusing as much as you can instead of buying new clothes all of the time. This set of books is a nice resource for anyone wanting to know more about living off of the land and reducing their carbon footprint.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Very Very Basic - OK for a beginnerBy Chuck S.Besides needing some preprint review (edit the thing before printing it!) the info is very basic. If you're just starting out in preparedness, then maybe this may be the book for you to start with, otherwise, there are more informative books out there.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful.
